Spending time in the community has many benefits.

- Meet new people
- Learn new skills
- See different places
- Try new things
- Experience activities with others
- Exercise- walk, bike, swim & more
- Enjoy fresh air and being outside
- Improve your health and well-being

Travel training can help you explore the community.

CCBDD Travel coordinators can help you learn to ride a bus or rapid, use a ride-sharing service (like Uber or Lyft), ride your bike or simply walk to places of interest in your community. They can also teach you safety tips, how to identify street signs and how to interact with people you meet in the community. For more information, call (216) 736-2953.

Community resources are available.

Almost all local cities and townships have free or low-cost resources available to help you explore and be active in your community.

These can include:

- transportation
- recreation centers
- senior centers
- parks
- libraries
- concerts

Contact your city/township to learn what they provide.

Tips for parents of young children

- Be creative, don't be afraid to go out and try something new.
- Take baby steps. The ultimate destination doesn't have to happen the first trip. Maybe getting in the car is the first hurdle. Tackle things one at a time.
- Research before you go. Learn what they offer or don't offer so you can be prepared.
- Ask your therapist (EI staff) to come along. We can help make things easier and provide strategies for success.

Unless indicated on a chart under "Special Info," please keep in mind the following:

- Transportation is available Monday through Friday during regular business hours- no weekends or holidays.
